

Issue #1, January 2014

"To be understood, the first thing you should do is talk to the people's eyes" Napoleon

"A Leader: A Powerful Influence"

By Ira Franco Your Partner - Your Life Coach

A teacher once told his student: "Don't be too much of a leader. It is not good for the other girls to follow you so much". It would be interesting to understand; what was the teacher's intention by saying something like that. What was he trying to teach his student? and what was he really thinking by using those words?.

Children don't have a definition for the word leader or label anyone by using it; a leader is someone with the innate ability to take charge, someone who people trust, feel comfortable being around, and someone whose ideas are accepted.

The emotional and personal development of a group is influenced and inspired by their leader (s). If the leader plays a positive role, the group will consequently contribute to their environment and community.

What qualities does a leader need?

What does it mean to be a leader?

As parents, teachers, friends or bosses, we should realize that the spoken word has a powerful influence on the listener. That is reason you must be careful with the words you choose and the tone of your voice.

This article is based on the premise of positive leadership for individuals and countries. As history has shown us, there is compelling evidence of the danger that could arise from a leadership that takes on a dictatorial and destructive atmosphere.

(*) Sesiones Disponibles en Español